Online Leadership Training Program for Student-Athletes

The NWCA's Building Leaders for Life initiative supports leadership skill training of coaches and athletes nationally and enhance the educational value of sport participation. As part of this initiative, NWCA entered a partnership with Southwest Missouri State University and the United States Marine Corps to offer Building Sport Team Leaders, a 1-credit graduate course, offered via the internet to a national audience of coaches.

For the past year, the Developing Sport Team Leadership course has been offered by Southwest Missouri State and the National Wrestling Coaches Association to more than 80 high school and college wrestling coaches who wish to make the leadership development of all student athletes a priority on their teams.

Building Sport Team Leaders brings best practices to coaches who want to make the development of leadership skills a priority on their teams and who wish to build a powerful team leadership culture. Coaches who take the internet
